Professor of Chemistry at University College, Reading, since 1912, whose death was announced a few days ago. He was educated at the universities of London, Munich, and Nancy, and was the author of many scientific monographs.

The Late Mr. Henry Bassett
The distinguished chemist who has died at the age of eighty-three.

The Sphere, October 2, 1920
The Late Mr. Henry Bassett

We greatly regret that by an inadvertence we published a portrait of Mr. Henry Bassett, Professor of Chemistry at University College, Reading, instead of that of his father, Mr. Henry Bassett, a well-known consulting chemist, who died on September 2 at the age of eighty-three. We much deplore that this circumstance has caused a great deal of pain to the family of Professor Henry Bassett to whom and to whose family we offer every apology. Mr. Bassett was very well known as a consulting chemist, specializing in non-ferrous alloy and anthracene work. He published some valuable papers and notes, mainly in The Journal of the Chemical Society and in The Chemical News, in addition to which he carried out much research work.

Section 4 – Featured Bassett: Will of Seth Bassett of Vermont

Seth Bassett possibly descends from William Bassett of Plymouth as follows:

William Bassett and wife Elizabeth
Joseph Bassett (b. 1635 and wife Mary Lapham
William Bassett (b. 1667) and wife Mary Bumpus
Seth Bassett (b. 1715) and wife Mary Hayward

I have transcribed the following will from Vermont Probate Records, however, the names listed do not match up with the information on have on Seth Bassett. Possibly the children listed under Seth Bassett (#639) belong to his son Seth Bassett. it appears from the will that this Seth Bassett married (2) Lydia Richards as he lists his wife as Lydia and names several of her children including daughter Charlotte Munger, daughter Phebe Hager, and son Hiram E. Richards

Any help in sorting out this family would be appreciated

Human Petrification

How human bodies or other bodies, become petrified has long been a mystery. The fact, however, is abundantly established. The following quite remarkable case is furnished us by John A. Nichols, Esq. of Spencer:

Mary Bassett, wife of Jeremiah Bassett, died Nov. 8, 1850; was buried on the farm of her husband about two miles north of the village of Spencer in this county. At the time of her death she was 81 years old, and rather fleshy - the disease being dropsy. Her remains were taken up by Phineas Brazen, in May, 1873, and removed to the cemetery in the village of Spencer. The body was found to be in a petrified state, except the eyes, which were gone. The body was quite plump, the chest full size, color yellowish, which, no doubt, was caused by the earth in which the body lay. The hair was viable and natural. By tapping on the body it appeared to be a hard substance. It was very heavy, quite as much so as when a live, and ropes had to be got under it to lift it out of the grave; and in raising it the neck broke off and let the head drop. The coffin was nearly all gone, and left the body lying in the earth. There were three other members of the family buried in the same grave yard, and within a few feet of this woman, all of whom died since the mother; and their bodies were all entirely decayed, nothing but the bones remaining.
